1. Our Mission and Our Values

A- The McCord Stewart Museum's Mission

A landmark for over 100 years, the McCord Stewart Museum bears witness to Montreal's history as Quebec's largest city as well as its influence in Canada and around the world. It celebrates the vitality, creativity and diversity of the communities who live there. The Museum amplifies their voices by interpreting and disseminating the remarkable historical heritage under its care—six collections comprised of 2.5 million images, objects, documents and works of art—making it one of North America's leading museums.

In keeping with its commitment to decolonization and sustainable development, the Museum adopts a critical and inclusive perspective on social history and contemporary issues to create stimulating exhibitions, educational programs and community activities that inspire its audience to take action towards a more just society.

B- The Day Camp's Mission

The Museum's day camp is a chance to experience life at a Montreal cultural institution dedicated to our city's history and material culture.

The day camp is attentive to the needs of children during school vacations: to move, play outside, learn and above all to have fun! The day camp's activities take place in different parts of the Museum and outdoors; each child is encouraged to take the time to observe the world around them. Through contact with artworks, objects and different types of installations, they will have the chance to explore ways of seeing and experiencing the world.

C- Description of Activities

The 2025 day camp has two themes for its activities, linked to two exhibitions on show at the Museum: Costume Balls: Dressing Up History, 1870-1927 and Pounding the Pavement. Montreal Street Photography.

The day camp's activities are offered simultaneously in French and English.

Costume Stories

This summer, children will step into the colourful world of the extravagant costume balls and skating carnivals of yesteryear. Every day, they'll encounter a historical or fictional character from the exhibition Costume Balls: Dressing Up History, 1870-1927 and will have fun dressing up, photographing themselves, dancing, and organizing the ball to which you are cordially invited.

Available in the following weeks:

- July 7 to 11
- July 21 to 25
- August 4 to 8

Looking at My City

This summer, children will sharpen their observation skills and uncover an unexpected version of Montreal. Equipped with a camera and inspired by urban life and the photographs from the exhibition Pounding the Pavement: Montreal Street Photography, they'll have fun exploring the city's streets, making up alley games, and playing with images that are fascinating and surprising.

Available in the following weeks:

- June 30 to July 4
- July 14 to 18
- July 28 to August 1
- August 11 to 15

C- Child's Record

The child's record must be completed directly in the reservation system (Amilia) when registering. To update a record afterwards, please get in touch with a camp coordinator.

The record includes:

- General information
- Details on the child's health
- The names and contact information of the individuals authorized to pick up the child
- Photo authorization

For children who are not Canadian residents: proof of valid health insurance for the entire duration of the camp. Children without insurance will not be able to attend camp.

3. Code of Conduct

A- Behaviour

The Museum's day camp aims to be a safe and welcoming space for everyone. We ask that every child treat their peers, our camp counselors and the equipment with respect.

Violent behaviour will not be tolerated, and conflicts will be resolved through respectful communication. Likewise, it will be forbidden to wear clothing bearing negative or violent messages.

For safety reasons, children will not be permitted to be alone in exhibition spaces or on the day camp premises, unless they receive permission from a camp counselor.

B- Disciplinary Actions

Should inappropriate or disruptive behaviours arise, the camp team will first intervene with a verbal warning. Major behavioural issues (e.g., aggression, bullying, disrespectful language) may be addressed immediately at a meeting with the camp coordinator and director and potentially lead to consequences.

In the case of repeated incidents requiring intervention, the camp staff will follow the escalation steps detailed below. More significant consequences may be imposed based on the nature of the act. Parent cooperation is essential.

Disciplinary Warnings
1st incident	Verbal warning from the coordinator.
2nd incident	Verbal warning and meeting with the coordinator and director. The camper may be partially removed from an activity.
3rd incident	Warning and meeting with parent(s). The camper may be temporarily removed from an activity or suspended from the camp.

C- Lunch

We will take a 90-minute break for lunch, during which we will eat outdoors, in the Museum Alley (pedestrian street next to the Museum) or on the McGill campus. In case of rain, we will use the indoor day camp spaces or the Museum's theatre. After lunch, children will participate in outdoor games to encourage physical exercise. In case of rain, we will play inside.

The Museum's day camp wishes to promote healthy habits. With that in mind, we encourage parents to pack a balanced lunch. According to Canadian nutritional guidelines, that means fruits and vegetables, wholegrain foods, and protein. It is recommended to avoid all forms of sweets (candy, cake, fruit juice, soft drinks). For practical reasons, we ask that you do not pack lunches that need to be microwaved. Please plan a cold lunch or use a thermos.

To reduce the risk of allergic reactions, products that contain nuts or peanuts are forbidden on the day camp site. Children will not be allowed to swap food, whether it's a lunch or a snack.

For safety reasons, we will not allow any glass containers on the day camp site.

D- What to Bring and Wear

For their comfort, children should bring the following items with them every day:

- A hat
- Sunglasses
- Sunscreen
- A full change of clothes (top, shorts, etc.)
- Comfortable shoes
- Two or three snacks
- A cold lunch and icepack
- A reusable water bottle (in plastic, metal, etc.—no glass)

Clothing and shoes should be comfortable and travel friendly.

All clothes and accessories must be labelled with the child's name. The Museum's day camp is not responsible for any loss or theft.

No games, toys or cellphones from home will be allowed on site.

E- Medication

Medication can only be administered with the authorization of a parent, who must specify the dose, the type of medication and the recommended time. A camp counselor will make sure the child takes the medication and will fill out the medication record.

Counselors are not authorized to give children over-the-counter medication unless they have written authorization from a parent. Parents and guardians commit to immediately inform the camp coordinator of any change in a child's health situation.

All medications will be stored in a safe area that is only accessible to authorized personnel.
